DETAILED ACTION

Status

1. This restriction was necessitated by Applicant's amendment, which reintroduced the elements of claim 1 into Group V. When Applicant elects a species below, Applicant is requested to elect one of formula Ia, Ib or Ic and a single Z group, since these are distinct searches, as discussed in the restriction. Applicant is NOT required to elect a particular subcompound, since each of the species is independent and distinct and lack unity of invention. It is further noted that Applicants earlier species election of DNA, nucleic acids and RNA as the analyte is maintained.

2. Claims 12-14 are pending.

Claims 12-14 are subject to restriction.

Election/Restrictions

3. This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

There are 15 species in this invention.

Species I is Compound Ia with the first Z group.

Species II is Compound Ia with the second Z group.

Species III is Compound Ia with the third Z group.

Species IV is Compound Ia with the fourth Z group.

Species V is Compound Ia with the fifth Z group.

Art Unit: 1637

Species VI is Compound Ib with the first Z group.

Species VII is Compound Ib with the second Z group.

Species VIII is Compound Ib with the third Z group.

Species IX is Compound Ib with the fourth Z group.

Species X is Compound Ib with the fifth Z group.

Species XI is Compound Ic with the first Z group.

Species XII is Compound Ic with the second Z group.

Species XIII is Compound Ic with the third Z group.

Species XIV is Compound Ic with the fourth Z group.

Species XV is Compound Ic with the fifth Z group.

Applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single species from the 15 listed above to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. The reply must also identify the claims readable on the elected species, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered non-responsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

4. The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Claims 12-14 each correspond to the species.

5. The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: While there is a common utility for each of these compounds, there is no common core structure which is shared by each member of the species. It is immediately evident that Compounds Ia, Ib and Ic share no common core structure and have no common special technical feature. Similarly, there is no common core structure among the different Z groups. Further, the original generic claim was anticipated by the prior art of Baroncelli as discussed in the previous rejection, so there is no special technical feature in the generic invention. This is similar to example 23 of Annex B to the PCT guidelines where no common structure is present, since there is no common structure between these compounds.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
